Swansong for choirmaster Harvey

A SUMMER concert is being staged in honour of the musical director and founding member of a Walsall choir who plans to step down from his role after more than 40 years.

Harvey Boucher was one of 11 members who set up Shelfield Male Voice Choir in 1968, which has since performed all over the UK and Europe.

The 77-year-old, of Elizabeth Road, Walsall, intends to retire in July but is first gearing up for his biggest concert yet. It will feature UK, european and world champions The Cory Band.

The retired engineer, who spent years playing the euphonium in brass bands, says he still intends to sing with the choir.

The grandfather, who saw the choir grow to 75 members at its height, remembered when it first started.

"We all came from musical back-grounds and sung in church choirs," he said.

"We were in church one Sunday evening and decided to form a choir. We've seen it grow and develop, and I wanted to leave on a high."

The summer concert will take place at Walsall Town Hall on Saturday, May 19. Tickets are £12 and are available from 0845 111 2900.

An 82-year-old woman handed over £680 for gardening work in Darlaston on Monday, January 16, at 11.50am. A man knocked on her door claiming that a tree in her garden had affected a neighbour's drains and needed felling.

He is white, about 45, and stocky, and wore a dark T-shirt and trousers, and a dark hard hat with visor.

On January 10, an 89-year-old woman in Walsall gave a man fitting the same description £360 cash for tree maintenance.

Nell Adamson in younger days

Tributes as hero's girl dies at 100

A WALSALL great-grandmother with "a big heart and fighting spirit" who rescued homeless cats and dogs has died at the age of 100.

Tributes have been paid to Nell Adamson, also known as Ellen. The resident of Richmond Hall Nursing Home, Aldridge, rescued homeless cats and dogs and knitted blankets for the Cats Protection charity.

Her daughter, 77-year-old Pat Riley, described Mrs Adamson as being very "determined" and said she even did her own shopping until the age of 99.

"She had many friends and made people laugh with her antics. She took stray dogs and cats in over the years and knitted a lot of blan-

Mrs Riley, a retired teacher, added: "My mother was lively and had a big heart and fighting spirit. She was a very determined lady who used to do her own shopping until she was 99."

Determined

Mrs Adamson was born in Plymouth, Devon, on September 27, 1911, to Charles and Ellen Duffin. Mr Duffin was a George Cross-winning deep sea diver who was awarded the highest medal for bravery in 1937 for a rescue of a trapped colleague at Portsmouth Docks.

Mystery of pool solved

THE riddle of declining water levels at a Walsall pool has been solved. Experts have discovered that water being pumped out of a nearby canal has caused levels at Moorcroft Wood Local Nature Reserve, in Moxley, to plummet.

Campaigners raised fears for hundreds of fish at the pool after water levels fell to their lowest for 20 years.

AS A staunch fan of classical music, Jacquie Wittstock loved going to con-certs. But weighing 24 stone, she dreaded having to squeeze her size 34 body into her seat. After one too many uncomfortable evenings, and a difficult flight to Aus-tralia, the Walsall Council worker finally decided that enough was enough and embarked on a diet.

In just 16 months the 47-year-old from Burntwood has shed a whopping 11st, and can now sink her size 12 figure into theatre seats with ease.

Visiting her sister in Australia was an ordeal as she felt she was taking up too much room on the plane.
In October 2010 Jacquie took the plunge and joined WeightWatchers at Burntwood Community Centre, eating salads, fresh fish and fruit. And when she slimmed down to a size 18 she started doing regular exercise and entered the Race for Life.

Jacquie now enjoys running, can swim 100 lengths in 53 minutes, and is training for the triathlon.

Walsall's 12 years of Tory misrule

THE latest results for the Christmas shopping period make dismal reading shopping period make dismal reading our local economy in Walsall and the Black Country.

While some high street stores managed modest increases in sales due to aggressive price cutting and discounts, others like Tesco reported falls. Overall sales are likely to have barely increased compared to December 2010.

The consequences of this can be seen in with the rapidly increasing number of empty shops in our high streets.

The response of the Conservative nis nead in the sand.

In Walsall, for nearly 12 years, we've had a Tory-run council which has seen our local shopping centres and economic circumstance fall rapidly below that of other comparable towns. This must indicate that many crucial opportunities have been missed by those in charge over this period.

Only the wealthy to gain from new line

WE ARE constantly being told by Mr Cameron that we must tighten our belts, but he has been persuaded by backroom boys to spend £32 billion on a rail line that will decimate a huge swathe of countryside, destroying buildings that are people's homes and businesses and part of English history. He will lose hundreds if not thousand, of Tory voters and will gain a train for the wealthy, who will probably travel on expenses, and get to London 20 minutes earlier; some gain! Would it not have been more profitable to use the money to rebuild our navy, with the ships being built in Britain (not the EU) creating jobs here and spending power. We shall need our navy, as the Government has been threatening Iran with action, and there are rumblings from Argentina. The money could be used to upgrade the existing rail system, making it better for everyone instead of the elite few. Also, if we are so short of money, why this harebrained scheme, and why are we giving billions of pounds away to the EU and almost every country in the world?

Discord as bugle-playing tatters fined £600 each chants have been fined £600 each for blaring out bugle music from vans after a court heard they disturbed shift workers.

they disturbed shift workers.

The pair were convicted in separate cases of operating a loudspeaker to advertise for business in Stafford, even though one claimed he was actually playing a bugle, which is not illegal.

Stafford environmental health officer Andrew Price told Cannock magistrates the problem with tatters' noise had become "desperate" for staff working nights for the emergency services when their sleep was disrupted.

Kevin Fletcher, aged 51, was spotted by Councillor Ralph Cooke in Silkmore Crescent, Stafford, at about 11.15am on August 10 playing a CD of bugle music in his lorry with his windows wound down.

Fletcher, of Mackay Road, Walsall, admitted he owned a CD with such music but said he was not playing it on that day. He was convicted and fined £600 with £435 costs and £15 victim surcharge. Mark Rollason, 41, also denied playing a recording of bugle music in his van in Brunswick Terrace, Stafford. Councillor Cooke, who plays the bugle and the trumpet himself, told the court last Friday: "I'm aware of what a musical instrument looks like. The mistakes were perfectly replicated each time."

Rollason, of Nursery Road, Walsall, insisted he was playing the bugle intermittently. But magistrates convicted him of operating a loudspeaker to advertise for business and ordered him to pay a £600 fine, £420 costs and £15 victim surcharge.

Time to prey for a clear day to see town falcons

Above, one of the two peregrine falcons high above Walsall rooftops Right, Senior countryside ranger Morgan Bowers, who is organising a pere grine watch in March keeps her eyes peeled SPONSORS are being urged to step forward and help fund specialist wildlife cameras to capture the movements of peregrine falcons in Walsall.

A pair of wild peregrine falcons have made Walsall town centre their home, and can regularly be seen on the tall structures around the area.

The Black Country Biodiversity

Group, supported by countryside serv ices, has been exploring the possibility of setting up wildlife cameras in the bell tower at Walsall Council House to capture the activities of the birds.

Morgan Bowers, senior countryside ranger and records officer for the Black Country Biodiversity Group, said: "The wildlife cameras would give us unprecedented access to these important borough residents without distribuing them or threatening their turbing them or threatening their safety and wellbeing.

"Cameras would provide schools with a unique learning opportunity or businesses with a unique community experience and we are hoping to attract sponsorship."

A second day-long peregrine watch is being held on March 30 following a successful first attempt last spring when Walsall Council's countryside services teamed up with the West Midlands Bird Club and RSPB members.

Little Bloxwich village centre, now mostly demolished, showing the Nag's Head pub in the 1920s or 30s

The 'Foreign' centre always had an independent streak

THE ancient village of Bloxwich ncludes both Little Bloxwich and Great Bloxwich.

It may even pre-date Walsall itself, since Walsall is not shown in William the Con-queror's Domesday Book of 1086, and waisan is not shown in winain the con-queror's Domesday Book of 1086, and Bloxwich is!

Before the Conquest, Bloxwich (originally Blocheswic or 'Bloc's Village') was part of the Anglo-Saxon Kingdom of Mercia.

In 1162, the Manor of Walsall included the Anglo-Saxon Kingdom of Mercia.

In 1162, the Manor of Walsall included Bloxwich as part of the Foreign of Walsall. For Poor Law reasons, Walsall Parish was divided into townships of Walsall Borough and Walsall Foreign from 1627-1835. The Borough was the town centre, the Foreign the rest, with Bloxwich the independent-minded heart of it. The hamlets of Leamore, Blakenall Heath, Harden and Goscote have always had close ties with Bloxwich.

The Foreign often argued with Walsall about taxes, politics and the English Civil War, during which Bloxwich sided with the Royalists, and Walsall with the Parliamentarians, which is the chief origin of the ageold rivalry between Walsall and Bloxwich!

Medieval Bloxwich was a small agricultural village of around 600 people, expanding in the 1700s with coal mining, when many cottage industries thrived. By the early 1800s it was surrounded by canals, with goods easily transported, encouraging expansion. The village became justly famed for its light metalwork, especially 'awl blades of Bloxwich repute'.

From the 1400s, Bloxwich had a chapel of ease within the parish of Walsall, and its own parish from 1842. Originally named St. Thomas of Canterbury and rebuilt 1791-1833, today All Saints Church dates mostly from c1875-7 when parts of it were rebuilt.

The workhouse on Chapel Green was opened by 1752 in what is now Elmore Row (now a car park). Bloxwich Hall, built in 1830 for ironmaster Henry Morson, now houses various companies. Bloxwich Hospital, a Victorian private house converted to a maternity hospital in 1928, today offers mental health services for older people.

Bloxwich is notable for its leafy parks and gardens, including Bloxwich Park, originally the village green, enclosed and laid out as a park marking Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee. Bloxwich Fountain was moved to Promenade Gardens from Bloxwich Park in 1928. King George V Playing Fields were dedicated as a memorial to the king in 1938. Bloxwich has many historic pubs, including the 18th century Royal Exchange, the never-changing Turf Tavern and the Romping Cat.

Pat "King of Showmen" Collins (1859-1943) held Bloxwich Wakes on the site of the present Asda every August. A modern fun fair still bears his name and a memorial clock to him stands in Promenade Gardens. Bloxwich had a Victorian music hall (now used for school sports) and three cinemas.

Blowwich had a Victorian music hall (now used for school sports) and three cinemas. The former 1832 Methodist Chapel in Park Road has been a cinema, garage, factory and shop. The Electric Palace/ Theatre cinema in High Street was replaced by Pat Collins' Grosvenor Cinema in 1922. It closed as an Odeon in 1959.

Bloswich expanded from the 1950s, with Lower Farm, Dudley Fields, Chepstow and Mossley council housing estates being built. Today, Bloxwich is a pleasant place to live, with an independent spirit and unique character.

Review call as families battle flats after housing plans for a Walsall estate were submitted to the council for the sixth time. The Woodside Close scheme at Park Hall has been rejected five times by planning chiefs.

The most recent applica-tion to replace a house and six flats with three blocks of 14 apartments was kicked out by the council last April

April.

An appeal was then rejected by the planning inspectorate in September.

A fresh application has been submitted, with a proposed sub-station on the site moved further away from nearby homes.

A golden boot has replaced sculptor Luke Perry's fish

A golden boot has replaced sculptor Luke Perry's fish A FISH has been taken from a sculpture of an angler next to a Walsall canal and replaced with a golden wellington boot. It is the second time the fish has gone missing from the public artwork, off High Street, Walsall Wood.

The structure was intended as a nod to a popular fisherman as part of a £40,000 public art project funded by Walsall Council and carried out by Cradley-Heath artist Luke Perry's firm, Industrial Heritage Stronghold.

Darren Smith, director of Comfort Beds, in Lichfield Road, said: "I just laughed. The fish has gone missing before but it's never been replaced by a wellington boot."

But Steve Partridge, owner of Autumn Leaves Furniture, in Walsall Road, said: "I don't think it's funny at all. It's a shame when people vandalise things."

Mr Jones, aged 41, said it was still hard to believe his wife was capable of such a crine. After starting a new life for himself and his sons, aged seven and nine, he said he was now considering filing for divorce.

The court heard last year how 36-year-old Jones had fleeced her grandmother out of her £7,000 savings. She launched the attack with a stool at Mrs Myring's home in Albion Road, Brownhills, on May 31, 2011.

The partially blind pensioner was found with multiple head injuries, numerous cuts and bruises, and died in hospital.

Mr Jones said: "I didn't suspect anything.

"I was told about Daisy the following"

Mr Jones added: "On the day she was sentenced the boys were at school. "I piecked them up, brought them home and sat them down to explain what had hap-ened. They were as shocked as me. It's still hard to believe now."

Jones was caught as she walked down betty's Lane, Norton Canes, carrying two lack bin bags —which contained the murder weapon and a bloodied pillowcase.

He said he had no idea where the stolen money had been spent and that he had not known his wife to be violent.
Mr Jones was also initially considered a police suspect and has since suffered a breakdown and is being treated for depression.

Blox rockin' beats launch new season of town gigs

BOOKMARK Theatre, part of the Bookmark Bloxwich library complex, is ready to rock with another great night of live music as their 2012 gig season gets under way with a bang next week.

No regrets as Rhodes skates out

DANCING on Ice flop Mark Rhodes says he feels "relief" at being voted off the TV compe-tition after weeks of struggling being voted out the 1V competition after weeks of struggling on the rink.

But the 30-year-old former Darlaston Comprehensive School pupil said he's now got another major project on the go – his forthcoming wedding to sweetheart Harriet.

"I feel a lot of relief, although I loved doing the show. Probably, in hindsight, I should have gone in week one, so to have stayed as long as I have is a bonus."

have is a bonus."
Mark stumbled during his skate-off against Charlene Tilton last Sunday and was evicted from the show.
Despite this, the two to three hours of training a day, five to six days a week, gave Mark "best cardio workout ever" and he lost half a stone.
Mark is now looking forward to his wedding to Harriet, from Mark is now nothing forward to his wedding to Harriet, from London, which he revealed will be held on June 2 in St Albans. He remained tight-lipped on details, except for the cake – to be made of 200 doughnuts.

with a bang next week.

Steve Hayes and Lester Hunt, who take to the Bookmark stage on Saturday, February 4, are among the finest musicians from middle England and have become regulars on the international music scene, according to organiser Stuart Williams.

Many people will know Steve as the lead singer/guitarist with highly acclaimed Nearly Dan - their live show of Steely Dan songs is second to none.

Lester Hunt can be heard around the world whipping up a storm as lead guitarist with the Climas Blues Band - after nearly 40 years they are still one of the UK's finest.

Both are members of the Barffys, well-known in the Potteries – and now they are set to take the Walsall music scene by storm in Bookmark Theatre's Live Music Review series.

Stuart Williams, of Bloxwich Library Forum, which manages the theatre in Elmore Row in partnership with Bloxwich Library, said: "Hayes

Part exchange proves a winner

BELLWAY Homes is celebrating the widespread success of its part exchange scheme amongst buyers at Leyhill, its residential development close to Northfield.

The part exchange scheme works to remove the burden on buyers to sell their current property before moving into a new home, enabling purchasers to avoid the strain of an ongoing chain and to purchase their new home with ease.

ongoing chain and to purchase their new nome with ease. More than 22 per cent of purchasers who have moved into Bellway Homes' Leyhill development have made use of the part exchange scheme, which has allowed them to receive a fair, unbiased offer, based on an independent valuation for their existing property, without the need to pay estate agency for agency fees. Leyhill is close to the A38 and is central to junctions 3 and shape – a saloon, with no talk of hatch or estate on the horizon.

So you'll just have to concentrate on colour and fittings and perhaps go for the auto over a conventional gearchange.

And that's it, although you might not want to hang around. Kia has only modest sales targets for the Optima and might be surprised at the interest this hand so me machine generates.

erates. It's a big car, longer even than Ford's Galaxy and to my eyes a much handsome design, a shape overseen by the man who spent some years drawing new Audis for a living before being tempted away to inject style into Kias from Korea.

The Optima marks the completion of part one of the project that has seen eight new cars in seven years and turned Kia from a company that sold cars because they were cheap to ones that represent good value—an important difference were cheap to ones that represent good value – an important difference.

Good value (think Marks & Spencer) means we'll pay a bit more for something that looks good; making us feel better and the retailer a little bit better off.
Most Optimas will end up as company was and something that he wester of the tree of the payment of the company of the payment of the paym cars and aren't going to be upstaged in the company car park in a sea of Galaxies and Insignias, especially when the Kia's keeper starts describing what came as standard starts describing what came as standard with the car.

All Optimas share the same engine but come with a choice of four grades. The entry level Optima 1 (see, I said it was simple) costs £19,595 and has the business car essentials of air con, electric windows, Bluetooth, alloys and adjustable lumbar support for the driver – along with a huge boot easily made bigger still by folding the rear seats.

Next up is the Optima 2 in Luxe or Tech guise, each costing the same £21,695. Both have dual zone air conditioning, heated front seats (with memory and electric adjustment for the driver), reversing sensors and a more easily read instrument panel.

The Luxe then adds part leather seats.

easily read instrument panel.

The Luxe then adds part leather seats, sunroof, iPod cable, big 18 inch alloy wheels and a reversing camera. Opt for the Tech and you'll find a 12 speaker sound system, smaller alloys and touch screen satellite navigation.

The Tech looks the bargain buy of the range, which is topped by the £24,495 Optima 3 which adds xenon headlights, full leather upholstery... even an automatic parking system, heated rear seats tull leather upholstery . . . even an automatic parking system, heated rear seats and the ability of the hard-pressed driver to cool his seat at the push of a button. So it looks good (inside and out) and comes with lots of kit, but how does this present of the present of the Pretty well is the quick answer. The 1.7 litre, 134bhp diesel engine is vocal when cold but decently subdued once warmed through and provides enough performance to keep a busy company driver on schedule.

sive, adding vibrations through the Hood and keeping the revs annoyingly high when stopped at the lights and not looking worth the £1,500 charged for dispensing with a clutch pedal.

The manual gearchange 2 Luxe on test was much more refined, with a ride that felt busy on bad roads but calmed down at a business-like cruise on the motorway.

The manual change Optima recorded 57.6mpg in the mandatory (and misleading) Euro test; my drive on a variety of roads saw 44mpg on the easily read trip computer.

With 128g/km of exhaust pollution the With 128g/km of exhaust pollution the Optima will be easy on the company pocket, with zero road tax in year one and a reasonable £95 thereafter. Insurance, at group 17, shouldn't hit the bottom line too hard either.

What's not to like? Well, a tall driver will find the sunroof robs too much headroom, making the Tech version the one to go for. It ditches the glass but adds sat nav. So you need never miss an appointment for lack of directions.

Eddie hits early but Bloxwich lose way

BLOXWICH hockey firsts led 2-0 at home to Learnington only to be on the wrong end of a 5-3 scoreline.

Bloxwich started the game at a fast pace and found themselves two up after goals from Eddie Marrocco, one a short corner and the other following good work from Adam Baldwin.

But Bloxwich then seemed to sit back and allow Learnington to come into the game.

Seemet to six beak and amove game.

The home team's passing grew more loose and errorstrewn, which enabled Leamington to score and give themselves a foothold.

This period of play set the tone for the game as Bloxwich played some nice hockey in patches but continued to make mistakes.

Even though Phill Ashcroft scored a third for Bloxwich, stray passes enabled Leamington to get a further four goals and win the game 5-3.

Bloswich must now pick themselves up and get their passing game back together in time for their trip to Wednesbury.

Penalty winner mars Swann's first day

NEW BOSS Mark Swann was left to rue his fortune after a first game in charge of Walsall Wood. His team did well but a disputed penalty two minutes into extra time eventually decided this Smed-ley Crooke Memorial Cup tie. Inspired by Drew Aiton, Wood went in at half-time 2-0 up, but a Richard Deeming masterclass tied the game at 2-2 to force extra time. In the first minute a left-wing

But Wood went ahead in their But Wood went ahead in their next attack on six minutes when Aiton ran at the centre of the defence and played in Ian Purvey on the left for a low drive which found the net.

Aiton went close himself after picking up an Adam Braddock clearance, running on and pinging a low shot from 30 yards which brought a full-length save from Shaun Hayes.

Cadbury pressed only to run into a solid Wood defence although neat play by Danny Pilgrim on 35 minutes saw him make space for a far post cross which Adrian Parkes headed wide.

Wood got their second a minute before the break when Tom Howard laid a free-kick back to Aiton whose low shot found its way through a packed goalmouth and into the net.

Captain's performance is served up by Butler

SADDLERS skipper Andy Butler took centre-stage in Saturday's draw at Carlisle as he went from villain – briefly – to champion.

It was his horror slip which gifted Lee Miller Carlisle's early opener but his response was titanic. He was a one-man wrecking ball as he sought to redress the balance almost on his own, a captain's performance when Walsall needed it most.

Butler hit the post, had one cleared off the line and won the penalty from which Alex Nicholls claimed a priceless equaliser, writes Nick Mashiter.

The skipper has been at the heart of Dean Smith's team during the last year and his display at Brunton Park merely reiterated his commitment and loyalty.

A point at play-off chasing Carlisle can be seen as a positive, one gained rather than two dropped, but the Saddlers know they can do better. It was only after George Bowerman replaced Jon Macken on the hour that they perked up, shaking off the slumber which may have come from the decision to travel the 185 miles north on the day.

Before then Carlisle could

Red cards but Lockmen get late-goal winner

MATTIE DORGAN'S late winner gave nine-man Willenhall only their third league victory of the season.

Dorgan struck in a goalmouth scramble from a free-kick which followed a melee which saw one player from each side dismissed. The home team had already lost Tom Clews to a straight red in first-half stoopage time.

Tom Clews to a straight red in Irist-half stoppage time.

There were many talking points in the game, most concerning the performance of the officials, which infuriated both sides in equal measure.

Bridgnorth started the better with a fierce wind behind them, having four efforts just off target in the opening 11 minutes. They continued to dominate play but Willenhall were in sight of half-time when what the home team saw as a perfectly-timed Clews challenge was deemed a foul and the player red-carded despite claims that two defenders were covering. From the free-kick the visitors hit the post.

The second half saw Bridgnorth penned ack for long stretches.

With Willenhall gambling by throwing on an extra striker among three half-time substitutions, Danico Johnson from a free-kick and then Adam Swain with a cross-shot were just off target around the hour mark for the Lockmen.

Johnson again went close and substitute Jan Trapszo rattled the underside of the bar as the home team pressed.

The game was held up for 10 minutes after unfortunate Bridgnorth keeper Chris Crook collided with Joe Lyng as they race for the ball. He had to go off and full-back Simon Gregory donned the gloves. Johnson then teed up Trapszo who fired wide. Visiting skipper Jason Pike almost won it on 88 minutes but headed wide when unmarked.

"I don't think it's right but who am I to say anything? I'm not criticising the club.
"It's all about preparation
these days to give yourself the best chance on the pitch," he added.

shelled out several times this season to prepare prop-this season to prepare properly.

Their action comes with the blessing of manager Dean Smith.

The extra rest helped the Saddlers record their 13th draw of the season – and Nicholls insisted the plan is working.

Nicholls insisted the plan is working.

He said: "The gaffer is fine with it. It's all about making sure you're alright to play a game.

"For me it's about getting the right amount of rest as it does take it out of you travelling on the day – especially to Carlisle.

"It helps me, it's something I like doing and we've done it three or four times.

"I feel better for staying over and not having to travel so far on the day of a game," he said.

And the 24-year-old

he said.

And the 24-year-old insisted their efforts highlights the desire the squad have to pull themselves out of danger – by any means necessary.

He said: "It shows how much we want to do well for the club.

"Not many people knew but there's a few of us who do it and others want to do it. "We just want to give our selves the best possible chance on a Saturday."
